A Happy Couple. Conductor Mann had a happy newly married couple on his train to Bangor, one day last week. They were; Mr. and Mrs. Ezekiel Priest, of Thomaston. The groom is seventy-eight years of age and the bride but two years younger. It is understood that there has been some opposition to their marriage, but the saying is that love smiles at obstacles, etc. The couple are on a wedding tour.

The New Billiard Game. The games being played by the billiard tournament in New York are practically new ones. Nonpareils because no predicate at "pall-mall" first with a view of distributing large balls, and during spaces to play mostly around the table, three relay were adopted: A ball in square stones each corner of the table and winning the four triangles then formed, it is permitted to make only one carom without shutting out of the object balls outside of the triangle.

Lecture. The lecture by the lecture by Hon. Geo. E. Wedding next Thursday, are meeting with a fine sale. The Tipton (Ind.) Times speaks as follows of him: "Expectation was at the highest pitch. He came heralded by the press of whatever place he has lectured as. For over two hours he held the audience entranced by the magnetism of his wonderful eloquence. The supper will be served on the European plan, with gentlemen waiters only in attendance. We imagine the fair set will be quite full force to criticise the efforts of these men, who dare make an attempt even to get up an entertainment without the sentiment of the ladies.

Death of the McPherson Murderer. Daniel Spencer, one of the two men sent last summer to the Insane Hospital, died of epilepsy at that institution on the 7th instant. Some forty-five years ago, this man was tried and convicted of murder. He killed a man by the name of McPherson, in Gilmore, striking him down with a spade, in the heat of passion, as was supposed at the time, but it proved to be a well matured case of treachery. Spencer was sentenced to be hung, but Governor Dunlap, then in office, observing something wrong about the whole affair, commuted the sentence to imprisonment for life. In 1860 Spencer was removed, under provision of law for such cases, from the prison to the Insane Hospital by Governor Hubbard and here the unfortunate man has remained ever since, being kindly treated and served during the hours, through all these long years.

THE COUNTY WARRIOR. The weather prophets geographically that the coming winter, as regards average temperature. There will be a cold spell through the middle of December, and a very cold snap during the latter part of January. The amount of snow which will fall will aggregate more than fell last winter, and the chances are that slaughter will prevail, during nearly the entire season. This is indubitably welcome news to the manufacturers of sleighs and the dealers in robes and furs, who for many winters past, have been hesitating in wearing of gauze. The temperature is it probably be time even than last winter, which was characterized by three severe gales!

CONFIDENTIAL. In speaking of the concert at Bon Fairfield, the Sentinel says: The concert began at eight o'clock and and was undoubtedly the finest ever given in this town. Miss Cook, the soprano, is a very fine singer as the frequency of applause testified; Mrs. Gardner is an excellent decorette and her singing was rendered in a fine manner; Mr. Moody the basso sang finely showing himself to be well up in the footnotes; of Mr. Hayden the tenor, we need make no mention, as he is well known to our music, criticism is unnecessary. Mrs. Jewett who played the accompaniments, on account of the instrument being a poor, had very little chance to exhibit her skill. She is a very fine player.

BITTEN BY A DOG. Miss Lona, a young daughter of Mr. Michael Chase, of Brooks; was badly bitten by a dog one day last week. The owner of Mr. Chase's son was once broken into by burglars, about which time a large bull dog terrified about the premises. The brute has been quarantined dangerous and consequently has been kept tramped during the day time, but was free at the day in question. The dog, without any provocation came upon Miss Chase, sinking his teeth so firmly into her face that it had to be used to on the him off. The girl's face is badly lacerated, the teeth penetrating and tearing the flesh in many places. The surgeon was obliged to take as many as twenty stitches in dressing the wounds.—Bethel Journal.

DIED AT SEA. The Pioneer says: A telegram was received this week by Hon. Lemuel O'Brien, of Trenton, from Calcutta, via New York, stating that his son, John Brice arrived at Calicut on the 23d day of October, and that Capt. Oliver Morse, master of the ship, died on the passage. No further particulars of his death have been received. His wife and only child, a daughter of some eighteen years of age, were with him. Capt. Morse has been in the employ of Mr. O'Brien's ships, he filled all grades aboard these ships, from foremost hand to that of master mariner, in which latter capacity he has for a few years. Capt. Morse was an honest, capable and worthy shipmaster, and his death is universally regretted. Regarding deceased the whole community sympathize with his wife and daughter in their affliction, which came threefoldly poignant by their being so far from home, kindred and friends.

FOR THE LADIES. Dressing bridesmaids in costumes suggestive of the four seasons is an English freak. Sidesplain sacques, in shades similar to those worn by ladies, are made for girls five years of age, and are ordered for those still younger. Ribbons and cuffs beautified and embroidered with colored wreath of the appropriate to the dress, and pointed shepherd's crooks, are fashionable for spring wear. The quantity of hair formerly used is no longer necessary. The hair may be worn high on the head or low on the neck according to the taste of the wearer. Moderately high compadour with the hair slightly waved is often preferred. The toque is the novelty in real-skin hats. It is a kind of turban with round crown, but polars slightly in front, and back, and has a band of very deep fur, such as sea-otter, passed around the edge. The band is of the fur used to trim the dress worn. For street dresses, gloves of the deepest shades, dark brown, admiral blue, dark ruby, dark shades of olive or myrtle green, plum, wisteria and grape-colored cloth are the latest suggestion. Seal-skin is chosen in darker, richer shades this winter than the furriers have ever before obtained, and remain the favorite for fur, sacques and cloaks.

THE ALLEGED ROBBERY.

Examination of the Four Young Men Arrested on Suspicion—Bound Over.

Yesterday was a busy day at the Police Court, which was literally packed with men and boys, reminding one of a box of sardines as they were so numerous that it was impossible for one to move unless the crowd merged as the chess time, and the odor was not particularly pleasant. The occasion of this large gathering was the trial of John Burns, John Donahue, John Flemming and David Crowley, for the alleged robbery of Marcellus Mead, of Vienna, Maine, last Wednesday night. John Varney, Esq., appeared for the first two, F. H. Appleton, Esq., for the other two, and B. B. Mace, Esq., County Attorney, also for the State.

Mead testified that he arrived in the city Wednesday evening on the Maine Central train and took supper at the Franklin House. After supper he went out with one of the waiters of the house, who showed him around to several places. He met Burns and Donahue at a saloon on Central street and passed the evening in their company, drinking more or less liquor during the time. The substance of his testimony from this point was the same as already printed in these columns, to the effect that he was robbed of between $160 and $175 by these parties on Harlow street.

Officer Allen was the next witness and he testified as follows: Wednesday night at about half past twelve as he was on his beat on Central street, he met Mead and he said he had been knocked down and robbed. He had blue jeans, his hair full of mud, face had blood stains on it and his clothes were also covered with mud. He made a very clear statement. After finding out about the matter we all started to investigate it. He told the same story there that he had in the court room. We took the man with us to the house he had visited for the purpose of finding out who had been with him during the evening. At the National House we got some clue and then arrested Burns and Donahue at their houses. Before leaving the National House we heard some noise in an adjoining room and Officer Dougherty secured with a dark lantern and found Flemming coming in at a window. His clothes had some mud on them, but other, nothing more questions we allowed him to retire. After taking Burns and Donahue to the station house we decided to arrest Flemming, whom we found in bed. Officer Dougherty had some talk with Flemming and then told us to go and arrest Crowley, but we could not find him at home; later in the morning we found him at Griffin's Bangor House corner. This was about

NERVOUS WEAKNESS.

Our music loving people will be pleased at the Bostin Club's announcement in regard to the close of an engagement with the Boston English Opera Company, for the production for next Friday evening of Planquette's Bouffette Opera, the "Chimes of Cornerville." The Boston English Opera Co., was known last year as the Boston Bijou Co., and firmly established themselves as great favorites in this city by their superb rendition of the favorite bouffet opera "The Bells of Corneville." The present change in the company is the substitution of Mrs. H. R. H. Carter, formerly soprano of the Haverhill Concert Co. of place of Miss Wiley. Among the other principals we notice the names of Miss Anna Chesebro, contralto, Miss Frank Corey, Mr. J. C. Bartlett the favorite tenor, Mr. John E. Brand, baritone, formerly with the New York Fifth Avenue Co., Mr. F. A. Gilbert, basso, and others. The company numbers thirty artists, including a fine chorus and orchestra. The "Chimes of Cornerville" is one of the most popular operas of the day and has never been presented in this city. It will undoubtedly draw out one of the largest houses of the season. Notwithstanding the heavy expense attending the production of the opera, popular prices will prevail, the management relying on a generous patronage to compensate them for the outlay. General admission will be but 35 cents. Reserved seats 50 cents. Sale of seats to open at D. Bugbee & Co.'s on Wednesday morning, 28th inst.

CATARRH, ADIEU OR CURSING.

Tenth week in Bangor. Unparalleled success of Dr. Josiah Briggs with his new discovery, medicated oxygenated vapor, a delightful and absolute cure, in connection with other specifics, for nasal, throat, pulmonic and dry catarrh, asthma, cold in the head, hay fever, deafness, sore eyes, bronchitis, consumption, neuralgia, rheumatism, headache, nervousness and all chronic diseases. Hundreds of the worst cases, pronounced incurable by 20 eminent physicians in all sections of the country, have been cured by this discovery and treatment. Over two hundred persons have taken treatment since the 1st of May last in Bangor, and the cures have been almost marvelous. Many have been cured after trying most other remedies for that disease, and say plainly that it is the only thing that ever relieved them. It is wonderful to mark the change in a patient upon a trial of the medicated vapor. Hope revives, the eyes twinkle with delight, unlimited nature dreams forth in all her glory from the low ebbed darkness, and the mariner sees hope, pleasure and dignity in the distance. Many say they have not slept a night for years in the recumbent position, but awoke in the morning as refreshed as though they had been sleeping on a bed of down. Many have been restored to perfect health and strength after the most eminent physicians had given them up to die. Dr. Josiah Briggs' Medicated Oxygenated Vapor and Other Remedies are the most wonderful discovery of the nineteenth century, and are destined to be the means of saving thousands of lives. Dr. Briggs' Medicated Oxygenated Vapor and other remedies are now for sale by druggists in every part of the country, and may be had by mail, private conveyance, etc. Johnson Boothby, availing themselves of the opportunity to obtain medicated oxygenated vapor and remedies. Can call them at 9 A. M. and be waited upon by Dr. Briggs himself from 9 A. M. to 3 P. M., at the Bangor House.

Mrs. J. Bingham, Bellfie street says: I have had my face shockingly injured by Dr. Josiah Briggs and most assuredly certify that by does not promise what he cannot perform. His surgical manipulations are entirely painless and perfectly satisfactory.

This excessive mortality may be prevented and effects cured and cured under the care of friends and loved ones at home, if they will but use Hop Bitters in time. This is known. A GREAT INDUSTRY.

Messrs. J. & P. Coats are the largest thread manufacturers in the world, employing at their two Paisley mills nearly 6000 hands in operation, and their annual sales are over one hundred and twenty millions (120,000,000) spools. This world-renowned spool cotton has only been sold in Bangor for a short time, yet the demand for it has been so great that several prominent retail dealers now keep it exclusively. Messrs. Wheelwright, Clark & Co. are the Wholesale Agents in Bangor, and at their new store they are displaying to advantage under an elegant show case with a pyramid, composed entirely of J. & P. Coats' spool cotton; and by an ingenious method of winding this pyramid revolves, showing spool after spool of colored thread unexpectedly passed to brilliancy and finish.

Messrs. Coats are poor, to, are; spool the ories in this State, which will give an impetus to business anew. jan10 3w d&w 30
